Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing this letter to highly recommend Madison Porter for the CMU Lem Tucker Scholarship.

Madison was my Advanced TV Production student for a whole year (and my intro to TV production student the year prior), and I was very impressed with her commitment to the subject area, to continuously working to improve her videography skills, but also to being the best student and kid she could be at all times. I very much enjoyed having Madison as a student in my class. She is hard working, and she enjoys learning and growing as a production class student and as a videographer. What I think is so endearing and exceptional about Madison is that her interest in school goes beyond the grade. She invests in her learning and in her future. She is an active participant throughout the production process for all videos she is a part of, and she always helps take control of and guide the preparation for our live announcements, and she helps set the tone of professionalism. She is well-organized and a creative attribute.

Madison's leadership abilities and maturity make her both an exceptional and trustworthy student and person. As a senior, she continues to set an excellent example for others as she is always respectful and considerate. She has a very special presence, and as a teacher, I was very lucky to have Madison in my classroom. Madison has a kind and considerate nature. Her schedule keeps her busy, but her dedication to being involved in all aspects of the school and areas that draw her interest, like media and production, is most admirable.

Madison has demonstrated her commitment to academics within the classroom, but she has also committed herself to being the most well-rounded person she can be through her participation in many extra curricular activities including, but not limited to: varsity softball, coaching softball clinics, volunteer and charity work for the Good Fellas Project, and various mentorship programs like CHUM and LINK crew. In each, she demands the best of herself. Madison really does give her all at all times.

Her organization, reliability and desire for excellence will help her to be an exemplary student in the college atmosphere. She is very well suited for the rigorous requirements and responsibilities college academics entail. Madison wants big things for herself, and by no means will I be in any way surprised when she achieves everything of which she is dreaming. She's ready for any challenge life presents her with. Madison Porter is truly a great kid, and any scholarship would be proud to name her as its recipient.

Feel free to contact me should you have questions or need additional information.

Warm regards,
