

3 of 10

All of the following are associated to the principle of non-maleficence EXCEPT:

- End-of-life decisions
- Treatment decisions
- Defending others rights
- Negligence

10 of 10

Autonomous evaluation

- All of the above
- Is based on person's best understanding of facts
- Have nothing to do with the capacity to consent
- Should be reasonable

8 of 10

All of the following are related to the principle of justice EXCEPT

- Resources allocation
- Equity
- Helping an accident victim
- Equality

5 of 10

All of the following are against the principle of autonomy EXCEPT:

- Forcing person to act against his logical moral judgment
- Forcing information on a patient when they have expressed a reflective choice not to receive it
- Treating patients only after having their consent
- Telling lies

7 of 10

All of the following is False except:

- Ethical principles provide a moral action guide in several historical scandals
- Ethical principles are useful for guidance only in clinical medicine
- Medical ethics have been the same from Hippocrates time
- Muhammad ibn Zakariya ar-Razi had a role in developing ethical principles

2 of 10

Physicians have been encouraged to do beneficence or they are required to at least do no harm

- True
- False

4 of 10

The ethical principle of autonomy:

- Implies that a child decision should be respected
- Implies that person's decision should be honest
- Implies respecting first order desire
- Implies that person have the ability to act on desires for his life plan

6 of 10

Notions of minimising benefit and maximising harm are among the trickiest aspects of modern medical ethics

- True
- False

9 of 10

Physicians may encounter situations where even the four basic principles are in conflict

- True
- False

1 of 10

Medical Ethics:

- Are guidelines and behaviours exhibited by medical professional
- It is a theoretical discipline
- An optional requirement for good clinical practice
- All of the above