The 2005 UNSECO (Bioethics & Human Rights) statement is required in law to be integrated into the laws of each member state of which the United Kingdom(UK) is a full member.

Article 6 of the 2005 UNESCO(Bioethics & Human Rights) statement specifically deals with consent of the individual to accept preventative, diagnostic or therapeutic medical intervention and is repeated below for Clarity

Article 6 - Consent

1. Any preventive, diagnostic and therapeutic medical intervention is only to be carried out with the prior, free and informed consent of the person concerned, based on adequate information. The consent should, where appropriate, be express and may be withdrawn by the person concerned at any time and for any reason without disadvantage or prejudice.
2. Scientific research should only be carried out with the prior, free, express and informed consent of the person concerned. The information should be adequate, provided in a comprehensible form and should include modalities for withdrawal of consent. Consent may be withdrawn by the person concerned at any time and for any reason without any disadvantage or prejudice. Exceptions to this principle should be made only in accordance with ethical and legal standards adopted by States, consistent with the principles and provisions set out in this Declaration, in particular in Article 27, and international human rights law.

1. Article 6.1 of the 2005 UNESCO(bioethics human rights) statement clearly states that:

Any preventive, diagnostic and therapeutic medical intervention is only to be carried out with the prior, free and informed consent of the person concerned, based on adequate information. The consent should, where appropriate, be express and may be withdrawn by the person concerned at any time and for any reason without disadvantage or prejudice.

2. This states that consent for any medical procedure lies with the individual and maybe withdrawn at any time without disadvantage or prejudice.
3. Clearly, forcing an individual to accept medical treatment or procedures that an individual does not consent to and is solely based on the threat of losing their current status/livelihood/education/home/medical treatment etc., if such a procedure is refused is forbidden under the statement and opens an employer to possible prosecution in a court of law for breaching of the individuals human rights.
