Though Jesus speaks harshly about the Pharisees in the Sermon, his judgment is not solely a condemnation of them. The Pharisees are portrayed as a negative example for his disciples, and his condemnation of those who claim to belong to him while disobeying his word is no less severe Mt — 23 , 26 — The narrative section that follows the Sermon on the Mount Mt — is composed principally of accounts of those merciful deeds of Jesus, but it is far from being simply a collection of stories about miraculous cures.

The nature of the community that Jesus will establish is shown; it will always be under the protection of him whose power can deal with all dangers Mt — 27 , but it is only for those who are prepared to follow him at whatever cost Mt — 22 , not only believing Israelites but Gentiles who have come to faith in him Mt — That episode of the narrative moves on two levels.

The ecclesial character of this narrative section could hardly be more plainly indicated. Mt , and to drive out demons and cure the sick as he has done Mt Again, the discourse moves on two levels: that of the time of Jesus and that of the time of the church. The narrative section of the third book Mt — deals with the growing opposition to Jesus. Hostility toward him has already been manifested Mt ; , 10 — 13 , 34 , but here it becomes more intense. But they are not alone in their rejection. The whole section ends with his declaring that not even the most intimate blood relationship with him counts for anything: his only true relatives are those who do the will of his heavenly Father Mt — The narrative of rejection leads up to the parable discourse Mt — Roy McDaniel.

The whole section ends with his declaring that not even the most intimate blood relationship with him counts for anything: his only true relatives are those who do the will of his heavenly Father Mt — The narrative of rejection leads up to the parable discourse Mt — In Mt he dismisses the crowds and continues the discourse to his disciples alone, who claim, at the end, to have understood all that he has said Mt In the narrative that constitutes the first part of the fourth book of the gospel Mt —, Jesus is shown preparing for the establishment of his church with its teaching authority that will supplant the blind guidance of the Pharisees Mt — 14 , whose teaching, curiously said to be that of the Sadducees also, is repudiated by Jesus as the norm for his disciples Mt , 11 — The church of Jesus will be built on Peter Mt , who will be given authority to bind and loose on earth, an authority whose exercise will be confirmed in heaven Mt The metaphor of binding and loosing has a variety of meanings, among them that of giving authoritative teaching.

Directly after that confession Jesus begins to instruct his disciples about how he must go the way of suffering and death Mt Peter, who has been praised for his confession, protests against this and receives from Jesus the sharpest of rebukes for attempting to deflect Jesus from his God-appointed destiny. Both he and the other disciples must know not only that Jesus will have to suffer and die but that they too will have to follow him on the way of the cross if they are truly to be his disciples Mt — But there is also the obligation to correct the sinful fellow Christian and, should one refuse to be corrected, separation from the community is demanded Mt — The narrative of the fifth book Mt — begins with the departure of Jesus and his disciples from Galilee for Jerusalem. In the course of their journey Jesus for the third time predicts the passion that awaits him at Jerusalem and also his resurrection Mt — At his entrance into the city he is hailed as the Son of David by the crowds accompanying him Mt In the discourse of the fifth book Mt — , the last of the great structural discourses of the gospel, Jesus predicts the destruction of the temple and his own final coming.

The time of the latter is unknown Mt , 44 , and the disciples are exhorted in various parables to live in readiness for it, a readiness that entails faithful attention to the duties of the interim period Mt — The coming of Jesus will bring with it the great judgment by which the everlasting destiny of all will be determined Mt — The passion supremely exemplifies both meanings of that central Matthean word.

These two aspects are expressed by an Old Testament theme that occurs often in the narrative, i. The questions of authorship, sources, and the time of composition of this gospel have received many answers, none of which can claim more than a greater or lesser degree of probability. The one now favored by the majority of scholars is the following. The ancient tradition that the author was the disciple and apostle of Jesus named Matthew see Mt is untenable because the gospel is based, in large part, on the Gospel according to Mark almost all the verses of that gospel have been utilized in this , and it is hardly likely that a companion of Jesus would have followed so extensively an account that came from one who admittedly never had such an association rather than rely on his own memories. The attribution of the gospel to the disciple Matthew may have been due to his having been responsible for some of the traditions found in it, but that is far from certain.

The unknown author, whom we shall continue to call Matthew for the sake of convenience, drew not only upon the Gospel according to Mark but upon a large body of material principally, sayings of Jesus not found in Mark that corresponds, sometimes exactly, to material found also in the Gospel according to Luke. In addition to what Matthew drew from Mark and Q, his gospel contains material that is found only there. Since Mark was written shortly before or shortly after A. The Jews considered tax collectors to be traitors. In Chapter 9 of his Gospel, Matthew tells a story about how Jesus called him to follow him and how the Jewish people felt about tax collectors. You can read it in Matthew Matthew wrote his Gospel for Jewish people who had become followers of Christ.

He wanted his audience to know that Jesus was the Messiah that God had promised to send to save all people. Matthew is also the only Evangelist who shares the eight Beatitudes with his readers. His Gospel faithfully reports how Jesus described who will be truly blessed by God in the Kingdom and the attitudes and actions that are required for those who follow the new Law Jesus came to bring. It is believed that he established Christian communities in Ethiopia and other sections of the continent of Africa. Did Jesus Exist? Fuller, Reginald H. In Metzger, Bruce M. Hagner, D.
