

THE PERFECT MONOLOGUE : HOW TO FIND AND PERFORM THE MONOLOGUE THAT WILL GET YOU THE PART PDF, EPUB, EBOOK

Ginger Howard Friedman | 376 pages | 01 Aug 2004 | Limelight Editions | 9780879103002 | English | New York, United States

5 Tips for Choosing the Perfect Monologue | Discovery Spotlight

Below are five tips on how to choose the perfect monologue that will wow directors and set you apart from the others. First impressions are everything. You want this monologue to represent who you are as an actor: your type, acting range, and what kind of character you can play. You should feel comfortable with the material you choose to perform, knowing that it plays to your strengths. Keep in mind what part you are wanting to audition for and pick your monologue accordingly. You want to show the directors that you can believably perform that role. Avoid using different dialects, accents, or props as those can be distracting. Your acting should speak for itself and demonstrate what you can do emotionally. Remember that you have unique strengths as an actor, so choose a monologue that exemplifies them! Choose a monologue that excites you. Perform a character that is interesting to you — one that you want to figure out and sink your teeth into.

A lot is at stake in an audition, so you should treat your character like a teammate: enjoy being that person and performing that role. Most monologues should be around one and a half minutes long and not exceed two minutes. Impress them in the small amount of time that you have. They usually make up their minds within thirty seconds, so make sure you hit the right note at the beginning, keep their attention, and then leave them wanting more. Part of being entertaining is telling a complete story. No one wants to hear someone only scream angrily or be completely weepy. One Hundred Monologues Call Number: Speak the Speech!

The most comprehensive sourcebook of Shakespeare's monologues ever available in one volume. A detailed guide to approaching Shakespearean text, Speak the Speech! Included herein are over monologues. Each one is placed in context with a brief introduction, is carefully punctuated in the manner that best illustrates its meaning, and is painstakingly and thoroughly annotated. Each is also accompanied by commentary that will spark the actor's imagination by exploring how the interrelationship of meter and the choice of words and sounds yields clues to character and performance. And throughout the book sidebars relate historical, topical, technical, and other useful and entertaining information relevant to the text. In addition, the authors include an overview of poetic and rhetorical elements, brief synopses of all the plays, and a comprehensive index along with other guidelines that will help readers locate the perfect monologue for their needs.

More than just an actor's toolkit, Speak the Speech! These one-minute gems are specifically written for those one-minute auditions that pop up more and more often. There are exciting and engaging monologues here for all types, ages, genders, and personalities. In he created The Glenn Alterman Studio www.altermanstudio.com. Alterman presently lives in New York City where he is working on a new commissioned play, completing a screenplay, coaching actors, giving seminars, and occasionally working in film and TV. Electronic Resources If you want to be creative the letters and diaries will let you be who ever you want in that time frame. American Civil War: Letters and Diaries Firsthand descriptions of historical characters and events, glimpses of daily life in the army, anecdotes about key events and personages, accounts of sufferings at home, a rich battles database, and others.

Spanning more than years , the , pages of materials provide a detailed record of what women wore, what they ate, what they read, the conditions under which they worked, and how they amused themselves. We can explore their relationships with lovers and with family and friends. Look all you want to Something neat and interesting! Coordinator of Berea Digital Projects. Amanda Peach. Email Me.

What's the difference between a soliloquy and a monologue?

Instituting a writing classroom that involves a writing process of planning, drafting or composing, revising or editing, and publishing, actively involves students in purposeful writing around which both their authorial and secretarial skills and understandings can develop. Where students use visual images to map out the sequence of their text, they use the images to gradually build the language needed to encode the meaning they represent. Students do this by focusing on different aspects of the picture and producing the parts of speech necessary to form complete sentences. Students combine these three elements to produce sentences about each image, e. My friend plays at my house. Students might begin by writing one sentence for each image and move to writing a short paragraph about each image. If students cannot annotate the image in English, they need to be given this vocabulary from a peer, the teacher or with the assistance of a bilingual dictionary.

Drafting or composing: Students need support for recording ideas in an initial draft. Teacher modelling or joint text construction can be very supportive for students at this point. This might involve:. Some examples include using:. They can also write an initial version of the text in their home language to 'get their ideas down' and then focus on their expression once the content is set. It may be appropriate to break the writing task into smaller chunks. For example, students write, workshop and receive feedback on just the introductory stage of the text before proceeding with the next stage. This has the advantage of clarifying correct language use in one stage, before it is practised and reinforced throughout the text. Revising: As individuals, with classroom peers and with the teacher incidentally or at a more formal conference , students need to be actively rereading over written drafts with a focus on meaning and form.

Important considerations here are whether the text makes sense, ideas are presented clearly and sequentially. Actions might include:. This includes learning to distinguish between social English choices and literate or academic language choices e. We found out about how clouds form versus Our investigations into cloud formation showed Teachers and learners need to be strategic in their revision strategies and not attempt to correct or modify everything.

For example, if the target text is a biography, past tense is a crucial grammatical feature. Focusing students' attention on using past tense forms of verbs they have learnt in their writing of a biography would be a worthwhile starting point. There may be scope for teachers to address related features such as word choice e. The revision stage could also be viewed as an opportunity to focus solely on the ideas of the written piece such as the quality of arguments, and leave the language component to the editing phase. As with all learners, developing strategies and tools for revising writing will be useful in the long term. These can include:. Editing: Students edit their texts focusing on conventions spelling and punctuation to ensure they are incorporated correctly and in ways that will assist the reader.

Useful strategies might include:. For more information, see: The writing workshop. Publishing: The final form of a written piece might be a digital publication, a paper-based text, an audio-recording or podcast, among many options. Rich models of published texts serve as exemplar texts that students might strive to emulate. So, while mindfulness of an audience necessitates attention to conventions around grammar, spelling and punctuation, students must feel they have licence to learn through a process of trial and error. Newkirk and Kittle , reflecting on the legacy of Donald Graves, note that a successful writing classroom is one where students feel a sense of. Students need to know that their writing choices will be respected, and that feedback will be offered respectfully and sensitively. In addition to these rights, they also need to know that they have responsibilities in what they write—and that sensitivity to the reality of student diversity needs to be carefully considered as students embark on writing that will entertain, inform and engage.

In this video, the teacher explicitly demonstrates how to expand noun groups to include pre and post modification of the noun. This example shows a whole group mini lesson and differentiated small group learning. Christie, F. Writing development as a necessary dimension of language and literacy education. Daffern, T. Building strong writers: creating a balance between the authorial and secretarial elements of writing. Literacy Learning: The Middle Years, 1, Portsmouth, NH: Heinemann. Our website uses a free tool to translate into other languages. Sculpt it into The image of your most public self. Lift up your hearts Each new hour holds new chances For a new beginning. Do not be wedded forever To fear, yoked eternally To brutishness.

The horizon leans forward, Offering you space to place new steps of change. Here, on the pulse of this fine day You may have the courage To look up and out and upon me, the Rock, the River, the Tree, your country. No less to Midas than the mendicant. No less to you now than the mastodon then. Oh mother, mother, where is happiness?

They took my lover's tallness off to war, Left me lamenting. Now I cannot guess What I can use an empty heart-cup for. He won't be coming back here any more. Some day the war will end, but, oh, I knew When he went walking grandly out that door That my sweet love would have to be untrue. Would have to be untrue. Would have to court Coquettish death, whose impudent and strange Possessive arms and beauty of a sort Can make a hard man hesitate—and change. And he will be the one to stammer, "Yes. National Poetry Month.

Materials for Teachers Teach This Poem. Poems for Kids. Poetry for Teens. Lesson Plans. Resources for Teachers. Academy of American Poets. American Poets Magazine. Poems Find and share the perfect poems. Still I Rise. Phenomenal Woman audio only Click the icon above to listen to this audio poem. Maya Angelou Alone Lying, thinking Last night How to find my soul a home Where water is not thirsty And bread loaf is not stone I came up with one thing And I don't believe I'm wrong That nobody, But nobody Can make it out here alone. Your mouths spilling words Armed for slaughter.

Gwendolyn Brooks Academy of American Poets Educator Newsletter. Teach This Poem Follow Us. Find Poets. Poetry Near You. Jobs for Poets. Read Stanza. Privacy Policy. Press Center. First Book Award. James Laughlin Award. Ambroggio Prize. Dear Poet Project.

Read The Perfect Monologue Online by Ginger Howard Friedman | Books

A stand-alone monologue while it may seem interesting to you at the time lacks nuances, reveals, and levels that good directors see in a committed and passionate performer. There are monologue books with actual monologues from published plays. A major pitfall from choosing one of these monologues comes from the easy availability of the monologue. Since reading plays and finding monologues is hard, it makes sense that a lot of actors will buy these books as a way to shortcut reading a lot of plays. So what does that leave you? These are not for auditions. This is for practice. Your teacher is there to guide you, not do the work for you!

Side note: While I am a teacher, I am also a performer. This is a tough, often cut-throat, small world business. No matter how much I like you, I am not giving you my hard earned stash of monologues. Nor will any other performer friend. This is doing you a disservice, and it undermines the craft. You want to be a professional actor? Do the work! I will help you with your monologue. I will help you cut your monologue. I will recommend plays. I will give honest feedback on monologue choices. I will help you interpret I will help you perfect your monologue. Bring me your new find and let's get to work. My daughter has a mild form of Tourette's Syndrome which causes uncontrollable eye movement which makes reading pretty difficult. To work around these challenges, we utilize Audible so that she can listen to plays look through their Modern Plays. Students might begin by writing one sentence for each image and move to writing a short paragraph about each image.

If students cannot annotate the image in English, they need to be given this vocabulary from a peer, the teacher or with the assistance of a bilingual dictionary. Drafting or composing: Students need support for recording ideas in an initial draft. Teacher modelling or joint text construction can be very supportive for students at this point. This might involve:. Some examples include using:. They can also write an initial version of the text in their home language to 'get their ideas down' and then focus on their expression once the content is set. It may be appropriate to break the writing task into smaller chunks.

For example, students write, workshop and receive feedback on just the introductory stage of the text before proceeding with the next stage. This has the advantage of clarifying correct language use in one stage, before it is practised and reinforced throughout the text. Revising: As individuals, with classroom peers and with the teacher incidentally or at a more formal conference, students need to be actively rereading over written drafts with a focus on meaning and form. Important considerations here are whether the text makes sense, ideas are presented clearly and sequentially.

Actions might include:. This includes learning to distinguish between social English choices and literate or academic language choices e. We found out about how clouds form versus Our investigations into cloud formation showed Teachers and learners need to be strategic in their revision strategies and not attempt to correct or modify everything.

For example, if the target text is a biography, past tense is a crucial grammatical feature. Focusing students' attention on using past tense forms of verbs they have learnt in their writing of a biography would be a worthwhile starting point. There may be scope for teachers to address related features such as word choice e. The revision stage could also be viewed as an opportunity to focus solely on the ideas of the written piece such as the quality of arguments, and leave the language component to the editing phase. As with all learners, developing strategies and tools for revising writing will be useful in the long term. These can include:. Editing: Students edit their texts focusing on conventions spelling and punctuation to ensure they are incorporated correctly and in ways that will assist the reader. Useful strategies might include:. For more information, see: The writing workshop. Publishing: The final form of a written piece might be a digital publication, a paper-based text, an audio-recording or podcast, among many options.

Rich models of published texts serve as exemplar texts that students might strive to emulate. So, while mindfulness of an audience necessitates attention to conventions around grammar, spelling and punctuation, students must feel they have licence to learn through a process of trial and error. Newkirk and Kittle, reflecting on the legacy of Donald Graves, note that a successful writing classroom is one where students feel a sense of. Students need to know that their writing choices will be respected, and that feedback will be offered respectfully and sensitively. Economics For Milton Friedman, what are the social responsibilities of business? What is The Fed and is it good or bad? What is a Ponzi scheme? What are the advantages and disadvantages of Gross Domestic Product?

What is full employment and why is it difficult to measure? What's a recession? What is economics? My parents and I are looking to buy a car for me I am 17 and I will be added to my parents insurance What cars have the lowest insurance rates but are still cool to drive What is marketing? Can you explain to me the impact money will have on the future or my future. I am 16 years old? Foreign Languages Are there any Spanish words bearing even a minute similarity to the name Peter?

Not a name, but any word that is in any way similar to Peter. I need help locating a Web site that has pronunciation of the Spanish alphabet. Where can I find the Spanish alphabet? Do you have any advice to help me learn it? I know that there is no elision with French possessive adjectives. So what's the deal with: Qui est ton artiste favorite? Do you have any tips? In Spanish how do I know when to use de, del, a and al? I'm going to be starting a new foreign language, and I'm not sure which language to take: French or Spanish. I know some French, but only greetings. Which do you think? What is the term for when the Congressional majority represents the opposite party of the President?

Where in the U. Constitution are health and property mentioned? To what extent did the Cold War shape the American domestic life of the s? The 10th Amendment does what? Which U. What does the FCC regulate? Who were the major political players during the Reagan Administration? Who helped shape President Reagan's legacy? Who was the first Secretary of State for the United States? Do prisoners deserve to be educated? The death penalty has always interested me. What are the different ways you can execute someone without it being cruel or unusual? Who were the major congressional participants in developing Social Security legislation? With so many delegates speaking so many different languages, how does the United Nations get anything done? I love watching TV court shows, and would enjoy them more if I understood some of the legal jargon, like ex post facto. What does that mean? The U. House of Representatives comprises members, proportionally representing the population of all 50 states.

Apart from those that encompass an entire state, which is the single largest congressional district by area in the nation? What is habeas corpus, and where is it guaranteed by law? Where is the establishment of religion clause in the U. What's the point of making texting while driving illegal? Have social conservatives captured the Republican Party? Why are Republicans or those who favor capitalism called the "right" or "right-wing" and Democrats or those who favor social issues called the "left"? What are the differences in the ways the House and the Senate conduct debates on a bill?

What is WikiLeaks? How long do oral arguments last in Supreme Court cases? What do you think are some reasons why the President was given almost unlimited military powers? What are some possible positive and negative effects resulting from the scope of the President's military power? Why is the United States government so worried about North Korea? Did Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation actually free any slaves? How were U. Senators originally chosen? What changes in American society have created new issues for the government to address? What was the Tweed Ring? What do you think secret service for the Obama girls is like? Is there a dude with a gun and stuff sitting next to them in class? Wouldn't that make it hard for them to concentrate? How many representatives does each state have in the House of Representatives? How are justices to the U. Supreme Court elected? Is this a good or a bad thing? What type of education do you need to become Speaker of the House?

Is that true? What do security and infringed mean in the Second Amendment to the U. What did Abraham Lincoln mean by "A house divided against itself cannot stand"? President who never won a nationwide election? What is the current law on compulsory vaccinations in the U. Are there any exceptions for people who don't want to get vaccinated? After the stock market crash, how did President Hoover try to help the economy? My economics teacher said something about stagflation, what is that, exactly? How do interest groups play a role in American government? Has Thanksgiving always been on the same day? Can someone who's not a Republican or Democrat win an election? What can you tell me about the presidential election? The Electoral College — can anyone apply? How do lobbyists influence public policy decisions? What happens if the president doesn't like a piece of legislation? What are the legal elements of a crime? How did the Whiskey Rebellion change people's perception of federal laws in the United States?

How do federal judges get their jobs? If you are dressed to conform to an informal, verbal dress code but a different, written dress code is enforced and you get in trouble, do you have a First Amendment right to challenge it? My teachers enforce the dress code inconsistently. How does the CIA recruit people? What types of majors do they typically target? What is the importance of the Declaration of Independence? Why would the founders of our country need to declare their freedom? Why is it so important today? What is the purpose of government, and how does a bill become law? Is there a way, other than retiring, to get out of the Supreme Court such as being dismissed?

When did the pocket veto start? Who would serve as the new president if both the president and vice president resigned? What's a Congressional Page and how do you become one? What is guerrilla warfare? Years ago I learned that our national highway system has built-in runways for emergency landing strips. Is this still true? What newspapers did Frederick Douglass write for? I know that the days of the week are all named after Norse or Roman gods or the sun and moon, but I can't figure out what Tuesday is named for. Do you know? Can you give me a brief history of Prussia?

Who were the Ottomans? Who discovered oxygen? How did Peter I of Russia come to power? What can you tell me about Kwanzaa? What is the Alma-Ata declaration? I've heard that in some countries, everyone has to sign up for the military between high school and college. How were women treated in Ancient Rome? What is the history and meaning of Turkey's flag? How are justices to the US Supreme Court elected Is this a good or a bad thing How did ounce come to be abbreviated as oz? Why did Cromwell dissolve the first Protectorate parliament? What place did the underworld have in Egyptian mythology? Can you explain Lincoln's Gettysburg Address in words that a teen can understand?

Who was the most famous mathematician? Where did Christopher Columbus land when he reached the Americas? How did Zeus become ruler of the Greek gods? What is antidisestablishmentarianism? What is Leningrad known as today? Who were the leading figures in the Classical period of music? Who wrote, "A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still"? What was the cause of the War of Spanish Succession? What is the song "Yankee Doodle Dandy" really about? How does history reflect what people were thinking at the time? My teacher says there's more than one kind of history. How can that be? What were the turning points in World War II? We just started studying Spanish exploration in North America.

What makes it so important today? What was it like for women in the 1950s? Have Americans always been big on sports? Who invented baseball? What did American Indians have to give up for pioneers? How did imperialism spread around the world? How did Imperialism in India come about? What's the big deal about Manifest Destiny? How did the Tet Offensive affect public opinion about the Vietnam War? Where do the four suits in a deck of cards originate? What do they represent? What was the Roe v. Wade trial? Who is Constantine? I need to know some info on the Monroe Doctrine.

I have looked everywhere but I still can't find any information. Where did the chair originate from? I was sitting on one the other day and it said "Made in China," but where did it first come from? Everyone talks about how enlightened the Mayans were, but what did they really do? What caused the fall of the Roman Empire? Did Christianity play a role? What was the reason for the downfall of the Russian Empire in 1917? What prompted slavery? Why were the Africans chosen for enslavement? How did World War I start and end? What is The Palestinian Conflict? I don't really understand the French Revolution. What started it, and what stopped it? What was the doctor's diagnosis of Helen Keller when she was a baby? What is the Trail of Tears? When speaking about Native Americans, what is the difference between an Indian tribe and an Indian Nation? What happened during the Boston Massacre? What was sectionalism in America before the Civil War? How did the U. S. What is Ronald Reagan's "Tear down this wall" speech about?

How many countries are there in the world? What did Columbus do besides sail to the New World? My history teacher said that if your religious denomination isn't Catholic, then you are a Protestant. Is she right? Do you think that Mormons are Christians? What is the full name of the Mormon Church? What is the size of Europe in square miles? How were the Crusades a turning point in Western history? I know that the verb pluck means to pull out or pull at, but what's the definition when used as a noun? Which novels would you recommend to year-olds on the theme of places and forms of power? In The Pearl, why didn't John Steinbeck give the pearl buyers identifying names? What is perfidy from Sister Carrie, by Theodore Dreiser? Is being pedantic a good or bad thing? Is a termagant a type of seabird? What is ichor from The Iliad? Is a rivulet really a river, only smaller? Charles Dickens has this person called the beadle in lots of his books. Is that like a nickname for a man with buggy eyes or something?

What is the main tenet of stoicism? What's the meaning of obsequious from Theodore Dreiser's urban novel Sister Carrie? Where are the Antipodes from Much Ado about Nothing? What is a truckle bed from Romeo and Juliet? What does truculent from Great Expectations mean? If someone inculcates you, should you feel insulted? Nice or mean? What does laconic mean? At a restaurant famous for its rude servers, a waitress told me to lump it when I asked for another napkin.

Can you tell me about that phrase? I thought necro had something to do with being dead. So, what's a necromancer? Sounds creepy. In Orwell's 1984, what does the opening sentence suggest about the book? Understanding the literary genre Magical Realism What's a prig? I asked my granddad if he liked his new apartment and he said, "It's all hunky-dory, kiddo."

I hate finding typos in books. Here's one I've seen several times: jealousies instead of jealousies. On the second week of my summer job at a bookstore, my boss handed me an envelope with what she called my emoluments. Looked like a paycheck to me, though. In To Kill a Mockingbird, what are some examples of the characters having courage? What's cud? I was once told to stop chewing my cud and get back to work. What can you tell me about the word patois from The Awakening? What are thews from Ivanhoe? What does pot-shop from The Pickwick Papers mean? Are all dowagers women? If someone is the titular head of a political party, does it mean they have all the power? The word flummox confuses me. What does it mean? Somebody told me I looked pasty. Does that mean I've eaten too many sweets?

I started taking private bassoon lessons. Is anomalous the same as anonymous? I know that a fathom is a unit of measure used by sailors, but how long is a fathom? What is a joss from Victory, by Joseph Conrad? What does eschew from The Pickwick Papers mean? What does excrescence from The Call of the Wild mean? What does the word covert mean? In Shakespeare's Sonnet 130, what is an oblation? In Moby-Dick, what does vitiate mean? In War and Peace, what does bane mean? In Jane Eyre, what are chilblains? Does mendacious refer to something that is fixable or mendable? Is kickshawes one of those weird words that Shakespeare coined?

What is renege, in Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra? What is maxim? I think it's a female name but I'm not sure. Last Valentine's Day, this guy I barely know gave me a rose and said something about ardent love. What does ardent mean? What kind of literature is a picaresque novel? What does culpable mean? What's a cenotaph? What does gallimaufry mean in The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo? My vocabulary is pretty good, but that one has me stumped! What does it mean to genuflect? Someone told me I was looking wistful. What is wistful? In David Copperfield, what does superannuated mean? Does the word syllogism have something to do with biology? I see the word benefactor a lot in my reading assignments.

Is that somebody who benefits from something? I found a funny word in The Glass Castle. Where did skedaddle come from and what does it mean? Does sinuous mean something like full of sin? I saw the word in The Devil in the White City. What are characteristics of Modernist literature, fiction in particular? What does my brother mean when he says he's too ensconced in his studies to look for a girlfriend? My grandpa complained about a bunch of politicians making what he called chin music.

Did he mean they were in a loud band? What is melodrama? In Dracula, what's a missal? In the terms abject poverty and abject misery, what does abject mean? In Moby-Dick, what does craven mean? What does cicatrize mean? What is a noisome smell" in Tolstoy's War and Peace? In Jane Eyre, what's syncope? I just read Dracula. What's the forcemeat in Jonathan Harker's journal? Can the word stern mean more than one thing? Where is Yoknapatawpha county?

What does smouch mean? How do you pronounce quay? And what does it mean, anyway? What are some examples of paradox in the novel Frankenstein? In Ivanhoe, what does mammoth mean? What does rummage mean? Is a mummer some type of religious person? Some guy I don't like told his friend I was acting all demure. When I complained about our cafeteria food, my biology teacher told me he wished they'd serve agarics.

Was he talking about some kind of dessert? Where did the name Of Mice and Men come from? What genre would you consider the book, The Outsiders? In Fahrenheit, why would a society make being a pedestrian a crime? What does the phrase, a worn-out man of fashion" mean from Jane Eyre? My teacher told me I was being obdurate.

Was that a compliment? What motives inspired Iago to plot revenge against Othello? Who was the first king of Rome? What does enervate mean? What is a parvenu? Is salubrity somehow related to being famous? Do capers have something to do with cops? What's the difference between a soliloquy and a monologue? What's a pandybat? Does the word inexorable have something to do with driving demons out of a person? Do people who prognosticate have some sort of special power? What is a hegemony, from James Joyce's Ulysses? What are fallow fields? I'm a city gal who heard the term at a 4-H fair and just read it in Anna Karenina. What's the difference between parody and satire? Lord of the Flies uses the word inimical. I saw vertiginous in Madame Bovary. What does mean the word mean? What does overweening mean, in Don Quixote by Miguel de Cervantes? Can you hear a dirge anyplace but a funeral? Does imperturbable refer to something you can't break through? What are the seven ages of man?

What's dross? What is an injunction? For school I had to make a Napoleon hat, which called for a cockade. What is that? If someone studies assiduously, does it mean they're working really hard or really slowly? Define mood as it relates to a work of fiction. Distinguish mood from effect. My sister calls me the Princess of Prevarication. This biography I'm reading about Queen Victoria says that she refused to remove the hatchment she had for her husband Prince Albert.

What does that word mean? What does sine qua non mean? What's lugubrious mean? What's impugn mean, from Ivanhoe? What does postprandial mean? I love reading fashion magazines and occasionally come across the word atelier. What does King Lear mean when he says that ingratitude is a marble-hearted fiend"? In Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, what are disquisitions?

What's shrive? My neighbor said she's been unshriven for years, but I think her skin looks quite shriveled. What's a dobbin? What's polemic? Over winter break, my uncle told me I was polemic and asked if I was on the debate team at school. I came across a list of homonyms: mu, moo, moue. I know mu is Greek for the letter m, and moo is the sound cows make, but what's a moue? What does trow mean? In Far from the Madding Crowd, what does cavil mean? Where can I find the word naught in The Scarlet Letter? I found an old diary from the s where the writer describes how he almost died but was saved by a sinapism. I know what mulch is, but what's mulct? When our teacher was introducing the next reading assignment, he said we'll be using the unexpurgated version. What did he mean? For some reason, the word dingle sticks in my head after having read Treasure Island years ago. I never did discover what it meant.

Ways to get started - Monologues - Library Homepage at Berea College

We found out about how clouds form versus Our investigations into cloud formation showed Teachers and learners need to be strategic in their revision strategies and not attempt to correct or modify everything. For example, if the target text is a biography, past tense is a crucial grammatical feature. Focusing students' attention on using past tense forms of verbs they have learnt in their writing of a biography would be a worthwhile starting point.

There may be scope for teachers to address related features such as word choice e. The revision stage could also be viewed as an opportunity to focus solely on the ideas of the written piece such as the quality of arguments, and leave the language component to the editing phase. As with all learners, developing strategies and tools for revising writing will be useful in the long term. These can include: Editing: Students edit their texts focusing on conventions spelling and punctuation to ensure they are incorporated correctly and in ways that will assist the reader. Useful strategies might include: For more information, see: The writing workshop. Publishing: The final form of a written piece might be a digital publication, a paper-based text, an audio-recording or podcast, among many options. Rich models of published texts serve as exemplar texts that students might strive to emulate.

So, while mindfulness of an audience necessitates attention to conventions around grammar, spelling and punctuation, students must feel they have licence to learn through a process of trial and error. Newkirk and Kittle, reflecting on the legacy of Donald Graves, note that a successful writing classroom is one where students feel a sense of. Students need to know that their writing choices will be respected, and that feedback will be offered respectfully and sensitively. In addition to these rights, they also need to know that they have responsibilities in what they write—and that sensitivity to the reality of student diversity needs to be carefully considered as students embark on writing that will entertain, inform and engage. In this video, the teacher explicitly demonstrates how to expand noun groups to include pre and post modification of the noun. This example shows a whole group mini lesson and differentiated small group learning.

Christie, F. Writing development as a necessary dimension of language and literacy education. Daffern, T. Building strong writers: creating a balance between the authorial and secretarial elements of writing. Literacy Learning: The Middle Years, 1, Portsmouth, NH: Heinemann. Our website uses a free tool to translate into other languages.

This tool is a guide and may not be accurate. For more, see: Information in your language. You may be trying to access this site from a secured browser on the server. Please enable scripts and reload this page. If you continue with this browser, you may see unexpected results. Monologues: Ways to get started. Ways to get started Monologues for Women Monologues for Men. Books The books you see here are upstairs and waiting to be used. A poetry speaking anthology by Hilda Adams and Anne Croasdel. Call Number: Another perfect piece : monologues from Canadian plays Call Number: Here is wonderful, up-to-date material for scene study, selected from the best plays from recent theater seasons. More than 20 monologues for both men and women, carefully chosen to display the widest range of dramatic ability, are essential for auditioning actors. A large selection of parts for woman provide exciting opportunities to sharpen acting skills in roles that brought accolades from New York's toughest critics.

More than 80 scenes in all, many previously unpublished, allow every actor, professional, amateur or student, to choose from either smart, sassy, often outrageous comedy or deeply moving drama—a unique, balanced collection of the most successful contemporary plays. The best contemporary selection of scenes for women—more than 50 in all. Extreme Exposure Call Number: Each artists' work is introduced by a journalist, artist, critic, agent, producer or educator who is intimately familiar with the material and its links to other forms such as vaudeville, theatre, cabaret, music, standup comedy, poetry, the visual arts and dance. One Hundred Monologues Call Number: No one wants to hear someone only scream angrily or be completely weepy. Make it varied. Choose a monologue that can be its own mini-narrative.

Perform a complete character. You want to demonstrate multiple skills, emotional transitions, and layers in your time with directors. You should know the context of your monologue. Be warned though: you should avoid famous monologues. Not only is that hard to pull off and be original, it will only draw comparisons to the actors who are known for performing them. You want to stand out and be distinct. By selecting the perfect monologue, you could be well on your way to securing the role of your dreams.

Just be sure to enjoy it and select one that represents you well!

18 Short Preludes

British Cinema: A Critical and Interpretive History

Why are Animals Funny?: Volume 1 : Everyday Analysis - Volume 1

The Dutch and Their Bikes

Von : The Life & Films of Erich Von Stroheim

The Idea of Communism