It really does work exceptionally well. Even if it is a bit of a weird thing to give as a gift! Vegan baking has exploded over the last few years, transforming itself from a world of flat, tasteless cakes to creations that leave even the most avid egg and dairy fan scratching their heads, wondering how such delights can be put together without the aid of animal products.

Well, there are certainly dozens of things you can buy for someone who enjoys rustling up plant-based breads and cakes but, in truth, these items are pretty similar to those you would buy a traditional home baker. Eschewing eggs and dairy does not mean you need an entirely different rolling pin! Everything in this list has been chosen for its quality, so you can rest easy knowing that your gift will be up to snuff.

Hopefully, this curation of vegan baking gifts will save you a little research time...and earn you a few Brownie points, too! Gretchen knows her stuff, and with over 20 years of professional baking experience behind her this should come as no surprise. Simple instructions complement the wonderful photography throughout, and the complete guide to vegan baking substitutions will be referred back to time after time, making this a resource that every vegan baker should have on their bookshelf. Perfectly weighted and totally affordable, this rolling pin is a winner for pastry as its stainless steel construction means it can be chilled prior to use, which helps turn a painful job into a pleasure.

Not only that, the use of this material makes clean up time a dream. No more bits stuck to wood and uneven drying! While those with food processors will be left scratching their heads, those without will welcome the gift of this stainless steel professional pastry cutter to their home baking arsenal. In fact, it can even be used as a mini-masher, perfect for baby food. Unlike many other dough blenders, this one from Spring Chef is solid in construction and will not bend when you exert force on it.

Other than that, this would make a great add-on gift for the vegan baker in your life. Something useful, but not necessarily necessary... if you know what I mean?! Built traditionally with a hand crank rather than the more modern squeeze sifters out there, this model is made with the true baker in mind. This piece of kit puts precision at your fingertips and removes any guesswork from your baking. Battery operated, this natty set of scales is cordless and hassle-free, making it a great gift idea for any baker, vegan or not. You see, Dutch ovens are great for a number of different dishes. Unlike the Le Creuset offering above, the Lodge version of this classic piece of cookware is a more industrial looking piece of kit, but it does a fine job with all of the above recipes thanks to the quality cast iron used by this family-owned company. If you buy one of these as a present, the person receiving it can expect it to last a lifetime, which makes it a very special gift indeed.

Another one for the bread baker, this bread proofing basket set is made with natural materials that can be used for all manner of loaves: from sourdough to beer bread and also includes a few handy tools in the shape of a silicone dough scraper and brush, and a bread fork, too. Made from sturdy rattan cane, the baskets are well made and will last a good long while if looked after, while the liners are easy to put on and have decent quality elastic around the edges...an area most bannetons could do better at.

It shows a little thought and effort has gone into the present, rather than just a last minute purchase on Christmas Eve or something picked up on the way to a birthday party. The one area they lack is the actual basket itself, which often leave a lot to be desired. You might want to pick up a fancier version and transfer the goods across if you want things to look just so, but some of these bundles come complete with an attractive carrier, too, which will save you both in time and additional expense.

Each box, basket, or set has some amazing items in them, including a few hard to find gems that will take even the most avid vegan foodie by surprise. Know someone who works out a lot and lives a plant-based lifestyle? Either way, this deluxe vegan certified protein snacks box is a great gift for you to give. For those of you who are looking more for a hamper-type present with a plant-based twist, the Vegan Delights Gift Basket by iGourmet could prove to be just the ticket. Beautifully presented in a snazzy whicker hamper, this vegan gift basket has some great bits and bobs hidden away inside, including Tunisian hand rolled couscous, organic Hunza triple berry granola, Fleur de Sel pistachios, and Incan red organic quinoa, which makes this particular gift set a little different from some of the other baskets on offer.

Best of all, the sturdy wooden chest can be reused for picnics or days away, making this a gift that truly does keep on giving. This vegan gift basket from Well Baskets is another offering that shies away from some of the more commonly found items to offer up a few different products that will excite and delight anyone who receives it. For those who are looking for a range of different items presented in a handsome fashion, though, this vegan gift basket is for you. Everything in this box has been made in either Washington State or Oregon, giving your recipient a true taste of the Northwest, regardless of where you are in the country.

How cool is that? Another offering from The Good Grocer is their gluten-free and vegan gift box. With 28 individually wrapped vegan goodies inside, this gift box is slightly bigger than the one above, so you get a little more to give. That aside, this box will doubtless be warmly received by all who are lucky enough to have it bought for them. Personally, I think the bad vibes surrounding giving beauty and bath gifts comes more from a lack of imagination and forethought than anything else.

If you can, try and take the time to find out what your recipient likes in terms of scents, products, brands, etc. When it comes to relaxation, luxuriating in hot water is hard to beat...but the experience can be enhanced!. This beautiful bath set from Bougie Bath makes a wonderful gift for anyone who likes to put aside an hour or two! Comprising of three sets, each has a bath bomb and soy candle that complement each other wonderfully, as well as natural cellulose facial sponge to ensure a deep cleanse without irritation.

Made in the USA from high quality ingredients that are both vegan and cruelty-free, this set comes packaged in a really sweet box that is easy to wrap and a joy to receive. Unlike many other bath bombs out there, these actually do moisturize and soften the skin, leaving your body feeling hydrated and healthy. Each of the bath bombs is made from natural, organic ingredients and the scents used are strong enough to fill the room without being too overpowering and sickly. Basically, just the right amount. Rosemary may not be the first scent you think of when it comes to beauty products, but this spa gift set from Pinkleaf works remarkably well.

Comprising of three pieces — bubble bath, bath gel, and some body lotion — this set is both stimulating and relaxing at the same time and the addition of coconut oil ensures the skin is left soft and moisturized after use. Packaged nicely in a gift box, each tube is also beautifully presented to round off the spa feel of the set. No golf ball size bombs here, these bad boys are billed as 10 minute fizzers! In fact, you could easily split these if you wanted to and get 12 baths from just the one gift box. Like the set Rejuvelle, these bath bombs are also made without unnecessary coloring, so your bathtub will stay the same color after use. For anyone who has experienced the annoyance of a dyed tub, this is undoubtedly a plus point! Packaged in a recyclable box, this vegan bath bomb gift set makes a fantastic, inexpensive present at any time of the year. Ten travel size bottles of the most gloriously scented bath oils make this an amazing gift for anyone who loves spending time in the tub and enjoys the experience more when a little something has been added to the water.

The only real downside to this set is that the oils are colored, so be sure to warn your recipient when they open their gift. Thankfully, however, the quality of the oils and fragrances used mean that just a tiny amount is needed, and that makes this small, yet well-rounded set a gift that will last far longer than it would first appear.

Well, being made from hemp, the outer casing is extremely durable and offers just the right amount of rub without over stimulating your skin and causing soreness. The other bonus is that these little beauties can be easily refreshed by washing in a regular washer when you do your laundry, giving you a fresh sponge whenever you need one. Finding the vegan in your life beauty gifts can be a minefield. For the lipgloss lovers in your life, look no further than this neat little gift set from Kopari.

Utilizing the moisturizing properties of coconut, these glosses are as nourishing as they are pretty. Made from a blend of 8 super-fruit oils, butters and extracts: acai, andiroba, babassu, brazil nut, buriti, guarana, murumuru and cupuacu, this rich butter will moisturize even the driest of skins. Cruelty free, vegan, organic, fragrance-free, and made in the USA — this butter has it all and you can rest assured that its ingredients were ethically sourced straight from the Brazilian rainforest.

The special blend uses caffeine to reduce puffiness, guarana for anti-aging, toning and the reduction of stretch marks and amino acids for superb hydration. This product is especially suited to those with drier or more mature skins — or those just looking for an intense moisture hit. Buying for the makeup lover can be difficult — especially when it comes to brushes. Glues, bristles, and cases can all contain animal derived products, making them unsuitable for a cruelty-free lifestyle. Containing a foundation brush, powder brush, angled liner brush, eyeshadow brush, and a lip brush, the kit has all the basics for makeup application. The synthetic bristles are considered better than those derived from animals as they absorb less product — meaning your makeup lasts longer! As well as this, the sleek fibers allow for smooth application of makeup. It would also be a great gift for travellers as the neat carry-case will fit easily into luggage — and looks pretty darn good too!

Now and then, it's a real luxury — but on the regular? The good news is that gifts like this BSDS Spa Gift Basket can help you bring the spa into your own home, so a little bit of luxury is always on hand when you need it most. The set contains: 4 bath bombs, bath salts, body cream, body butter, bubble bath, and a 3-in-1 shampoo, conditioner, and body wash — all the things your recipient will need for a home-based pamper session. For those of us that love gift giving but hate wrapping, this set comes beautifully presented with a gold ribbon — taking the stress out of packaging this up for a luxurious gift.

Give someone the gift of relaxation and a stress-free evening — right in their own home! Have someone in your life forever mixing lotions on potions in their kitchen? With recipes such as mascara, blemish sticks, foundation and face masks to name but a few — your recipient will have beauty recipes to fulfil every need.

The book contains recipes — all cruelty free and vegan of course — and covers skin types from dry to oily, young to mature, as well as different routines for day and nighttime. These mists are multi use and have a wide range of benefits. This is a product for those with slightly more luxurious tastes — or for those weaning off more conventional brands. The best bit? Combining spa products with specialist tools, you can give someone the gift of relaxation. This luxury spa gift set from Namaste Skin is brilliant value for money with 11 items in total — alongside a reusable presentation bag. So what products will they get? A tube of grapefruit hand and body lotion, a bottle of grapefruit shower gel, charcoal face mask, super fruit peptide eye cream, lavender bath salts, a luxury wood brush, one shower pouf, a natural pumice stone, a sisal sponge, and a rolling massager. A pretty bow ties this whole gift together, making this a brilliant pre-packaged set for those who like to pamper themselves.

Another moisturizer on the list — this time for the face rather than the body. The Aya Natural Face Moisturizer makes a lovely present for anyone worried about fine lines, dryness or tone. So what makes this moisturizer special? Olive oil, jojoba oil, avocado oil, and sweet almond oil combine in a luxurious blend especially suited to drier or more dehydrated skin types. Give the gift of smooth skin to someone special. Popping into your local drugstore and picking up soaps, body washes, shampoos, and deodorants can be tough for plant-based practitioners.

Many drugstore brands are neither cruelty free or v-friendly — meaning a classic Lynx gift set is out of the question when buying gifts for vegans! The best way around this is to look for vegan and cruelty free brands — which are often boutique or independent sellers. Bodycare products often make a good gift because of the wide range of people that use them — from your brother to your granny and everyone in between, everyone needs to shower and bathe — making the gift of soap, body washes, shampoos, and deodorants a gift for all. So, what are our picks? Give the gift of luxury with this truly beautiful combination of lotion, shower gel, shampoo, and conditioner. This hair and body gift set from William Roam comes packaged in a sleek, black gift box, tied off with a satin bow — and it looks gorgeous! To make the products, William Roam uses a blend of Maine blueberries, Napa Valley red wine grapes, and Kansas wheatgrass to create a refreshing botanical product.

For the truly eco-friendly, the box and bottles could be easily reused and repurposed — making this both a vegan and earth-loving gift. Or a soap shaped like a frog. Stephen Frog Soap is lovingly made using a blend of 5 vegan oils — like cocoa butter and olive oil. He comes packaged in a dinky little carrier with air holes of course! In his box is also his character story — so he could be a fun gift for little ones to learn about Stephen and his travels. This is a sweet little budget gift that could make a lovely vegan stocking filler, or be used as a small present for little ones in the family. This sweet little set contains a range of soaps in different fragrances: tangerine, bergamot, grapefruit, lemon, wild orange and petitgrain. The O Naturals 6 Piece Soap Collection is created with the best vegan ingredients and is designed to revitalize and invigorate. Containing vitamin C for an uplifting effect, this set is sure to bring a smile to morning showers whilst the vitamin E content moisturizes and nourishes the skin.

Crafted to be gentle on the skin, this set also comes beautifully presented in its own box — making this an excellent gift for citrus fans everywhere.

Another soap set on the list, this time of the more rustic, herbal variety. Packed with essential oils these lovingly handcrafted soaps from Mebien are rich in antioxidants and vitamins. Created using a cold process, you can be sure that these soaps are rich in skin loving ingredients whilst remaining super gentle. Fragranced with calendula, lavender and rose based on ancient Roman and Egyptian influences, this set would make a truly unique and thoughtful gift. They contain absolutely no nasties or unpronounceable ingredients, making the bars especially suited to sensitive skins. Though they have no harsh, detergents, these blocks of goodness foam up just as good as your more conventional soaps — making lathering up a truly luxurious experience. Made from a blend of talc-free absorbent powders and clays alongside natural essential oils for fragrance, this set will make sweat, odors, and dampness a thing of the past.

A novel idea for those in your life who love to exercise, live in a warm climate, or those looking for an all natural deodorant alternative, this set looks, smells and performs brilliantly. Sounds like the most perfect gift to us! Looking for a soap of the scrubby variety? Well look no further. This terrific gift set from Urbanized Beauty contains 3 travel sized bars of scrubby, exfoliating soap. These special bars are a real eco-friendly gift, as they utilize used coffee and recycled packaging, which makes these a great pick for your earth loving gift recipients. Coffee is packed with antioxidants and phenols, to leave skin moisturized, cleansed and restored — while also making use of ingredients that would otherwise have ended up in landfill.

The dinky size of each of the bars make for a hassle-free travel experience no TSA drama! Got someone in your life whose tastes change on the regular? Give them the option of switching up their fragrance day to day with this varied Lifetherapy Lotion and Bodywash Gift Set. Both paraben and sulfate free, this set is gentle on the skin whilst the lotion is moisturizing and richly nourishing, harnessing the power of shea butter.

For those conscious consumers out there, the outer packaging is recyclable and the bottles are reusable. This travel size toiletries gift set from Dani Naturals contains a shampoo, conditioner, hand and body wash and a lotion — meaning the lucky recipient will have everything they need to cleanse and moisturize from tip to toe. Scented with grapefruit and ginger, the fragrance is clean, refreshing and uplifting — fantastic for a morning bath or shower to start the day off.

The reusable pouch is a nice little addition — airplane friendly and ready for adventure! Got a frequent flier on your gift list? Giving gifts that are not only vegan-friendly but TSA and plane appropriate can be a tough task for even the most skilled gift buyer. Transporting makeup when travelling can be difficult — smashed bronzers, leaky foundations and crumbled eyeshadows — the perils of makeup flying around a bumpy suitcase!

For any makeup addict, the Habe Travel Makeup Bag will make an excellent gift. Each bag comes with stretchy pockets for brushes, velcro dividers to portion up the bag however they choose, and padded sides for protection — no more broken powders. The bag is also ultra-durable, so that your travellers can put it through tough terrain without seeing any issues with the products.

Great for suitcase packing, the neat bag will keep all of their products tidy — without worries over leaks and spills over the contents of their bag. Well, fear not fellow vegans because this year you can give the gift of a great meal out using The Essential Vegan Travel Guide. This guide gives tips on eating vegan in any city across the world — as well as raw or gluten free. On top of this, the comprehensive guide gives tips on choosing a place to stay, packing and travelling with non-vegan companions — including advice on how to keep the peace! There are sections on dog and child friendly travelling as well as a section on exploring with allergies, too. Planning can also be part of the fun, and this guide gives you step by step instructions on how to plan camping trips, road trips, cruises, and retreats.

Know someone planning a camping or road trip? They may have a backpack full of snack bars, fruit, and nuts — but what about a nourishing, hot meal? Without the correct equipment or utensils, travelling into the wild or places unknown can present quite the challenge for vegan foodies. After all, it can be tough to find a good, nourishing vegan meal in the middle of nowhere. If you know someone sick of living off bowls of chips or side salads in less than helpful cafes, the Stanley Adventure Vacuum Insulated Food Jar would make a cracking gift.

The jar is leak proof, vacuum insulated, comes with a wide mouth to get food in and out more easily and is made from BPA free stainless steel — so no more worries about polluting plastic. Coming in at 24oz, in the cooler months your gift recipient can fill the jar up with chunky soups or chillis whilst cooler months you using it for dips or salads as it keeps food warm or cool for a whole 15 hours.

To keep things both rugged and effective, the Rothvyn Weekender Travel Bag utilizes both canvas and microfiber faux-leather for an elegant finish. For even more durability, the canvas is waxed to make the bag water resistant, too. Most importantly, for air travellers, the weekender travel bag meets the carry on luggage requirements for most international airlines. It features multiple internal pockets to keep things organised and two external zippered pockets — perfect for all of those travel documents. Hot weather and humidity can play havoc with hair — especially in ore tropical climates. The Hot Tresses Shampoo and Conditioner Set comes with a detox shampoo, hydrating conditioner and a leave in treatment. Packed with plant-based ingredients such as coconut, castor oil, ylang ylang, french clay, pumpkin and paw paw enzymes, and quinoa and hemp protein to leave hair strong, healthy and nourished, this set is sure to be a winner with whoever is lucky enough to receive it as a gift.

So good is this set that it was even included in the Oscars gift bags! Sometimes, just gifting a travel guide can feel a little on the bland side. Not so with this great little book. This equal parts travel guide, equal parts hilarious memoirs will be a gift that delights and informs in equal measure. Her mission? To set off in a camper van and write about every single vegan restaurant the USA has to offer. From gorgeous food to falling in love and wild adventures, the book covers it all. Did you know that there is more than , tonnes of plastic floating in our oceans? If plastic pollution continues at this rate, by there will be more plastic in our oceans than fish. Unfortunately, conventional plastic toothbrushes can be a significant contributor to ocean waste and landfill.

The solution? By gifting someone this Leafico Bamboo Toothbrush with Travel Case , you are contributing to sustainability and helping to save our planet. Both the the bristles and handles are made from bamboo — but why is bamboo such a great material? Furthermore, the bristles of each brush are infused with charcoal, which has teeth cleaning and antimicrobial properties — leading to a fresher, cleaner smile. Our final pick of travel guides has been specially selected because it covers how to travel and eat vegan on a budget. It follows writer Hook VanHook as she makes her way across some of the best state and national parks the US has to offer. A fun little read that is as entertaining as it is informative, this makes a great option for any vegan who struggles with the organisation that often goes hand in hand with budget trips.
