This year's Perianesthesia Nursing Conference will deal with a multitude of subjects that will help promote a healthier workplace environment for you and your colleagues. Just a few of the powerful subjects to be discussed by our speakers include the crucial need to truly understand the role of emotional intelligence in everyday life, how to hold courageous conversations, creating a zero-tolerance culture, and the best way to lead by example. These topics follow us from work to home, so it is essential that we have an understanding of these important topics. In addition, we will also have a pediatric anesthesiologist discussing Perioperative Respiratory Adverse Events in the Pediatric Surgical Patient.
